

GCC NATIONALISATION SUMMIT

Nationalisation has become a requirement for most private organisations in GCC countries to support economic growth and keep unemployment levels to a minimum. Despite many efforts, inconsistencies still prove due to the lack of skilled national labour force which is needed to help move its' economy forward. At the same time, local governments make it extremely difficult for the private sector to attract national talent because of the difference in compensation and other available benefits.

Industry experts from major organisations including the ENDP, British Council, Al Futtaim Group, Aujan Industries, NIVE, EIBFS, Emirates Academy and many more will be meeting at the 6th Annual GCC Nationalisation Summit which is taking place between 24th – 27th April 2011 at the Grand Millennium Hotel in Dubai, UAE to discuss strategies moving forward. The summit is endorsed by the ENDP and British Council.

Dr. Ingo Forstenlechner, Professor, Department of Business Administration, at University of UAE, conducted a study on 2,267 UAE national students who mentioned the government's many employment benefits and expressed the importance of job security which they feel is not provided in the private sector. Dr. Forstenlechner said: "the study comes at an important time for the UAE, as more than half of the local population is below 20 years and about to enter the labour market. This also creates immense pressure on private sector to absorb citizens".

Join the 6th Annual GCC Nationalisation Summit to hear essential presentations from key stakeholders including Dr. Forstenlechner as well as Essa Al Mulla, Executive Director, Emirates National Development Programme, Abdul Hakim AlBannay, GM Corporate Affairs, ETA ASCON and many more. This is a hot topic on everyone's agenda and a must attend event. There has never been a better time to learn how to implement a successful Nationalisation strategy to meet your quotas.
